

Devoted to Fellowship

Craig Rees

BIG IDEA

Faith flourishes when life is shared.

KEY SCRIPTURES

Genesis 2:18; Acts 2:42-47; Galatians 6:2

1. When have you felt truly known and accepted by other Christians? What made that experience different from simply spending time together?
2. Read Acts 2:42. What does “devoted themselves” reveal about the believers’ commitment? How does devotion differ from participation when it is convenient?
3. Which feels hardest for you: admitting a struggle, asking for help, or allowing someone to challenge you? What makes it difficult?
4. Acts 2:44-45 describes believers sharing possessions and meeting needs. What does this reveal about fellowship, and what might that kind of generosity cost you today?
5. What hidden belief might you carry into relationships: “I belong if I’m useful,” “I belong if I’m successful,” or something else? How does belonging through Jesus challenge that belief?
6. Read Acts 2:46-47. What stands out about the relationship between worship in the temple and meals in homes? What opportunities for shared life already exist in your weekly routine?
7. Of the four practices in Acts 2:42—teaching, fellowship, breaking bread, and prayer—which most needs to deepen in your relationships? What would practicing it look like?
8. Acts 2:47 places the church’s shared life alongside people being saved. How might the way Christians care for one another help someone encounter Jesus? Where could your circle make room for someone new?
9. What one step will you take this week to move from friendly contact to shared life, and with whom?
